

Trikaṇṭaka—(Trikaṇṭaka ?) a commander of Bhaṇḍa to aid Viṣaṅga;¹ was killed by Jvālā mālinikā.²

¹ Br. IV. 25. 29. ² Ib. IV. 25. 98.

Trikarmanirata—a name of Śiva.

Vā. 30. 217.

Trikumārikam Jagat—the whole universe is said to be pervaded by the three daughters of Himavān, Aparṇā, Eka-parṇā and Ekapāṭalā, all eternal youths and Brahmavādinis.

Br. III. 10. 14; Vā. 72. 13-5.

Trikūṭa (I)—a mountain on the base of the Meru, in Bhāratavarṣa;¹ surrounded by Kṣīroda, and 10000 yojanas high with three shining crests of silver, iron and gold; served by Siddhas, Cāraṇas and others. In its valley was Ṛtumat, the pleasure garden of goddesses, full of varied trees.²

¹ Bhā. V. 16. 26; 19. 16. ² Ib. VIII. 2. 1-19.

Trikūṭa (II)—Here is Lankā in Malayadvīpa.

Vā. 48. 26.

Trikoṇa—one of the ten Pīṭhas for images, in the shape of a trident.

M. 262. 7, 12, 18.

Trikhanda (ikā)—a Prakāṣaśakti.

Br. IV. 19. 15; 42. 2; 44. 115.

Trigarta—see Trigartas (s.v.)