

Saivyā (I)—wife of Jyāmagha.

Vā. 95. 32.

Saivyā (II)—one of the wives of Vasudeva.

Vā. 96. 182.

Saiṣirīti—a Trayārṣeya.

M. 198. 20.

Sokti—a Bhārgava gotrakāra.

M. 195. 26.

Sodakas—a Janapada of the Bhadrā country.

Vā. 43. 22.

Sopasangas—a Janapada of the Bhadrā country.

Vā. 43. 20.

Sopānapanktis—thirty-six of them lead to the cot of Śrīpīṭha (named).

Br. IV. 37. 57-61.

Soma (I)—a son born of Atri's eyes; honoured at birth by Śiva and Umā; borne for 300 years by diks (directions) and when released became an amśa of Brahmā who took him in his Vedic chariot of 1000 horses to his loka where Brahmarṣis adored him as their king and was praised by Mantras; nourished the crying Māriṣā in her babyhood with nectar; presented Pṛthu with undying horses.¹ Appealed to Pracetas not to destroy trees and offered their daughter Vārksī in marriage to him, married the twenty-seven daughters of Dakṣa; Kṛttikā and other stars as his wives; cursed by Dakṣa he had no issue and was struck with disease propitiated Dakṣa and recovered.² Appointed by Brahmā as Lord of Plants, Brahmans and stars; worshipped